Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 8.—The first legal step in an effort to free J. Henry Martin, the now held as a blackmailer suspect, taken today, when Attorney Joseph A. Smith, who also represents Myron A. Martin, instituted habeas corpus proceedings in the hope of securing the prisoner's release from the city jail. Acting on the petition, Judge N. J. Harris of the district court issued an order mandating Chief of Police W. L. Norton to produce Martin in the district court at 10 o'clock next Wednesday morning.

Because of the fact that the writ was made returnable forthwith, the plans of the attorney were frustrated and the release of Martin by the officers, with no serious inconvenience as a result of the procedure. It has been indicated that a formal complaint against Martin will be filed in the district court upon the return of Postoffice Inspector L. A. McGee from San Francisco, that official is expected to arrive tomorrow.

Following a conference of Chief Norton, Mr. T. A. DeVine, District Attorney, Mr. C. Davis and County Attorney DeVine, the latter two decided to file a complaint tomorrow regardless whether the postoffice inspector returns with a complaint against Martin or not. It is probable that McGee will be in the city by Friday evening, and that he will be able to file a complaint against Martin by that time.

Another important development in the case today was the arrest of Myron A. Martin, son of J. F. Martin, and cousin of J. Henry Martin. Although the young man was not arrested until today, his arrest last Friday evening, the officers and postoffice authorities never been convinced that he was not a party to the blackmail operation in this city, or at least that he could furnish valuable information concerning the alleged operations of Henry Martin.

MARTIN IS EXHIBITED.

When brought to the city for another hearing today, Henry Martin exhibited some remarkable characteristics, declaring that he had told all he knew and would answer no more questions. To give him an opportunity to explain his conduct, Judge Harris ordered him to be taken to the county jail, where he was given this evening as a night in a cell at the county jail. No action would be taken in the case until the morning of December 10, when the case will be heard.

Mr. Martin, who was arrested on December 1, after a conference with the district court, was taken to the county jail, where he was given this evening as a night in a cell at the county jail. No action would be taken in the case until the morning of December 10, when the case will be heard.

HENRY C. WARDLEIGH, pioneer of Weber county, and leader in fraternal work, who died yesterday.

MANY ARE MOURNERS FOR H. C. WARDLEIGH

Grand Army, Veteran and Noted Fraternal Worker
Closes Career.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Dec. 8.—The sorrow of a community for the loss of a pioneer in its upbuilding and a man who had been known and respected here for nearly half a century was manifest by citizens of Ogden today after the death early this morning of Henry C. Wardleigh, retired business man and former member of the city council. He had attained the advanced age of 70 years.

He had attained an enviable record in the community for the loss of a pioneer in its upbuilding and a man who had been known and respected here for nearly half a century was manifest by citizens of Ogden today after the death early this morning of Henry C. Wardleigh, retired business man and former member of the city council. He had attained the advanced age of 70 years.

With nearly all of the relatives present at the family home, 2210 Quincey avenue, the end came at 3 o'clock this morning. Mr. Wardleigh had been ill since last Friday. On that day he suffered a brain affection resembling dizziness. Even then his condition was not regarded as serious until Sunday afternoon, when he was forced to take to his bed. He passed away twelve hours later, death being due to hemorrhage of the brain.

Born in Lincolnshire, England, on October 31, 1843, Mr. Wardleigh was only 3 years of age when he came to the United States with his parents. His childhood was spent in the east, where he attended the public schools and afterward was graduated from a New York medical institution in 1862. He was a member of the Missouri college of the Missouri city.

At the outbreak of the civil war he enlisted with the army of Camp Douglas, serving three years as a member of Company H, Second regiment of California volunteers. He was honorably discharged on June 1, 1866. Upon his return from the war Mr. Wardleigh taught school in the county districts of Weber county for several years, later engaging in the music business. For twenty-nine years and up to five years ago, when he was a member of the city council, he was a successful business man of Ogden.

Mr. Wardleigh was well known to hundreds of Ogden and Utah citizens for his long and successful career. He was a member of the city council for several years, and was also a past commander of the department of Utah, G. A. R., having served in that capacity during 1885.

He had attained an enviable record in the service of the Knights of Pythias, having served continuously as the grand keeper of the records and seals for the local lodge since 1892. In the G. O. P. he had served as grand master for the jurisdiction of Utah. He was one of the first members of Ogden lodge No. 1, F. & M., and Ogden lodge No. 1, Odd Fellows.

During his earlier residence in Utah Mr. Wardleigh was also a member of several fraternal organizations, and also a member of the supreme court of the state. For two and a half years he was a member of the city council, serving for one term as president of the body. Wardleigh to Miss Phyllis C. Whitaker occurred in Box Elder county on August 24, 1864. Eleven children were born to them, and ten of the size of the handwriting. Martin threw down the pencil and refused to write at all.

The excellent sample of his handwriting obtained from the railroad company is written with an indelible pencil, such as is used in the navy. The handwriting was written with it. It is declared to be small writing and of such a general character as to give the impression of a man who was not a professional writer. Because of the strong handwriting testimony introduced during the preliminary hearing of Smith and the general supposition at present that the man is in no way connected with the blackmail plots, the authorities are not eager to make their handwriting evidence against Martin the basis of their charges against the man. Unless there are further developments, the X-ray photographs of the supposed blackmailer and lead particles in the man's leg will be the strong point of the prosecution.
